

David L. Streiner, PhD, CPsych

HEALTH SCIENCES
Psychiatry & Behavioural
Neurosciences

Research Work

Having retired three times (so far), I do not have any ongoing research projects of my own. However, I collaborate with a number of researchers, and consult with many more, which would allow people to access data on various projects. These include quality of life in children with epilepsy, evaluating dialectic behaviour therapy with suicidal borderline people, and improving the quality of life in the elderly by standardizing care.

Engagement Opportunities

Introductory Level

- Assist in reviewing articles and grants in a variety of areas (psychology, psychiatry, rehabilitation, etc.)
- Sit in on consultations regarding statistics and research design

Intermediate Level

- Draft initial reviews of articles and grants

Advanced Level

- Perform data analyses for research projects
- Conduct meta-analyses of your choice

If you are interested in learning more, please leave your contact information with the Research Office and/or contact David Streiner (streiner@mcmaster.ca).